CMAA Presents BIM Workshop

CMAA will hold a Technology Seminar on Building Information Modeling (BIM) at the Tower Club in Vienna, Virginia on January 13. This is an intermediate level BIM workshop and will emphasize practical implementation issues.

Topics will include Model Management, Technology Implementation, Legal Implications with BIM and Integrated Project Delivery (IPD) and more.

Deke Smith, Executive Director of National Institute of Building Sciences, a keynoter of this workshop, will discuss the future of BIM. Ronald D. Ciotti, Esq., of Hinckley Allen & Snyder will speak about the legal implications of the BIM Addendum. Attendees will also hear from representatives of Mortenson Construction, one of construction's most technically savvy and prolific design-builders. Charles Matta, FAIA, Director, Federal Buildings and Modernizations, GSA, will represent the Owner's perspective of BIM.

CMAA is registered with the American Institute of Architects as an approved provider of Learning Units (LUs). Conference registrants may earn and report 6 LUs, 6 PDHs, or .6CEUs. CCMs also earn three re-certification points for attending this workshop.

Registration is $250/$300 (Early Bird/Regular Non-members), $200/$250 (Early Bird/Regular Members), $100 (Students). Early Bird rates expire 12/31/2008.
